

Leonard Owens

Vice President, Human Resources and Labor • Georgia Power

Leonard Owens is Vice President of Human Resources for Georgia Power. As such, his primary areas of responsibility are the Georgia Power Health and Wellness, Talent Management, Labor Relations and HR Delivery organizations. Owens is also a member of the Georgia Power Management Council.

Prior to being named to this position, Owens served in a variety of roles in the Customer Service Organization, including Madison Area Manager, Active Collection Manager and Customer Service Manager for Metro North Region. Earlier in his career, he held positions in Human Resources involving Retirement Planning, Health Care Services and Pensions.

Owens joined Georgia Power in 1979, spending eight years as a Construction Analyst and then Human Resources Supervisor involved with the Vogtle Nuclear Plant construction effort.

Earning his undergraduate degree in Business Administration and Management from Fayetteville State University, Owens also received the Program for Management Development diploma from the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration.

Owens is active in his local community, serving as a community coach and mentor at elementary and middle schools in DeKalb and Newton counties. He has also served as a Youth Sports Coach in both DeKalb and Rockdale counties. As a Human Resources professional, Owens is an active member of the Society for Human Resources Management.